

DAYDREAMING DAISY
and her friend, Flynn

Daydreaming
Daisy and her friend, Flynn, is a story about
not being able to pay attention and finding ways to focus better.

Daisy

was a shy little girl who lost track of time because she daydreamed a lot. Often, she would have to focus to pay attention.

She was always imagining being an astronaut up in space.

Daisy's mom would get frustrated when Daisy forgot to do things even after being told to do them.

Today, she forgot to pick up her things AGAIN!

Now, having an imagination is a good thing, but it could sometimes get Daisy into trouble!

Flynn would try and remind Daisy about things that they needed to do. But sometimes it was really hard.

In school, Daisy would get into trouble because she would forget the question that the teacher asked her!

OH DEAR...

And sometimes Daisy would know the answer, but someone would already answer before her.

She was too busy daydreaming while the teacher was speaking to her.

So today, Daisy just didn't want to go to school. She felt like she wasn't smart and didn't want to get into trouble with her teacher again.

Daisy's mom explained
that Daisy had ADHD.

This meant she was smart but she just learned in a different way. She needed to work a little harder
than others to pay attention, but that was okay.

This morning, Daisy's mom had something new
to add to their routine—a special medicine from Dr. Chase for Daisy to try!

Flynn promised to help Daisy to pay attention in school, and reminded her that her friend
Tommy had ADHD too!

After taking her medicine,
with Flynn by her side, Daisy
was ready for school!

Daisy's mom spoke with the teacher and helped to explain to him that Daisy had some trouble paying attention and needed a little extra help.

So Daisy's teacher moved her to the front of the classroom, and looked right at her every few minutes to make sure she and Flynn were listening.

After the math lesson, he asked Daisy if she could list the four types of math problems they had just solved. He even gave her a little extra time to think.

And she could! Daisy really liked working with numbers!

She felt very happy at the end of the day. She wasn't so nervous about school anymore!

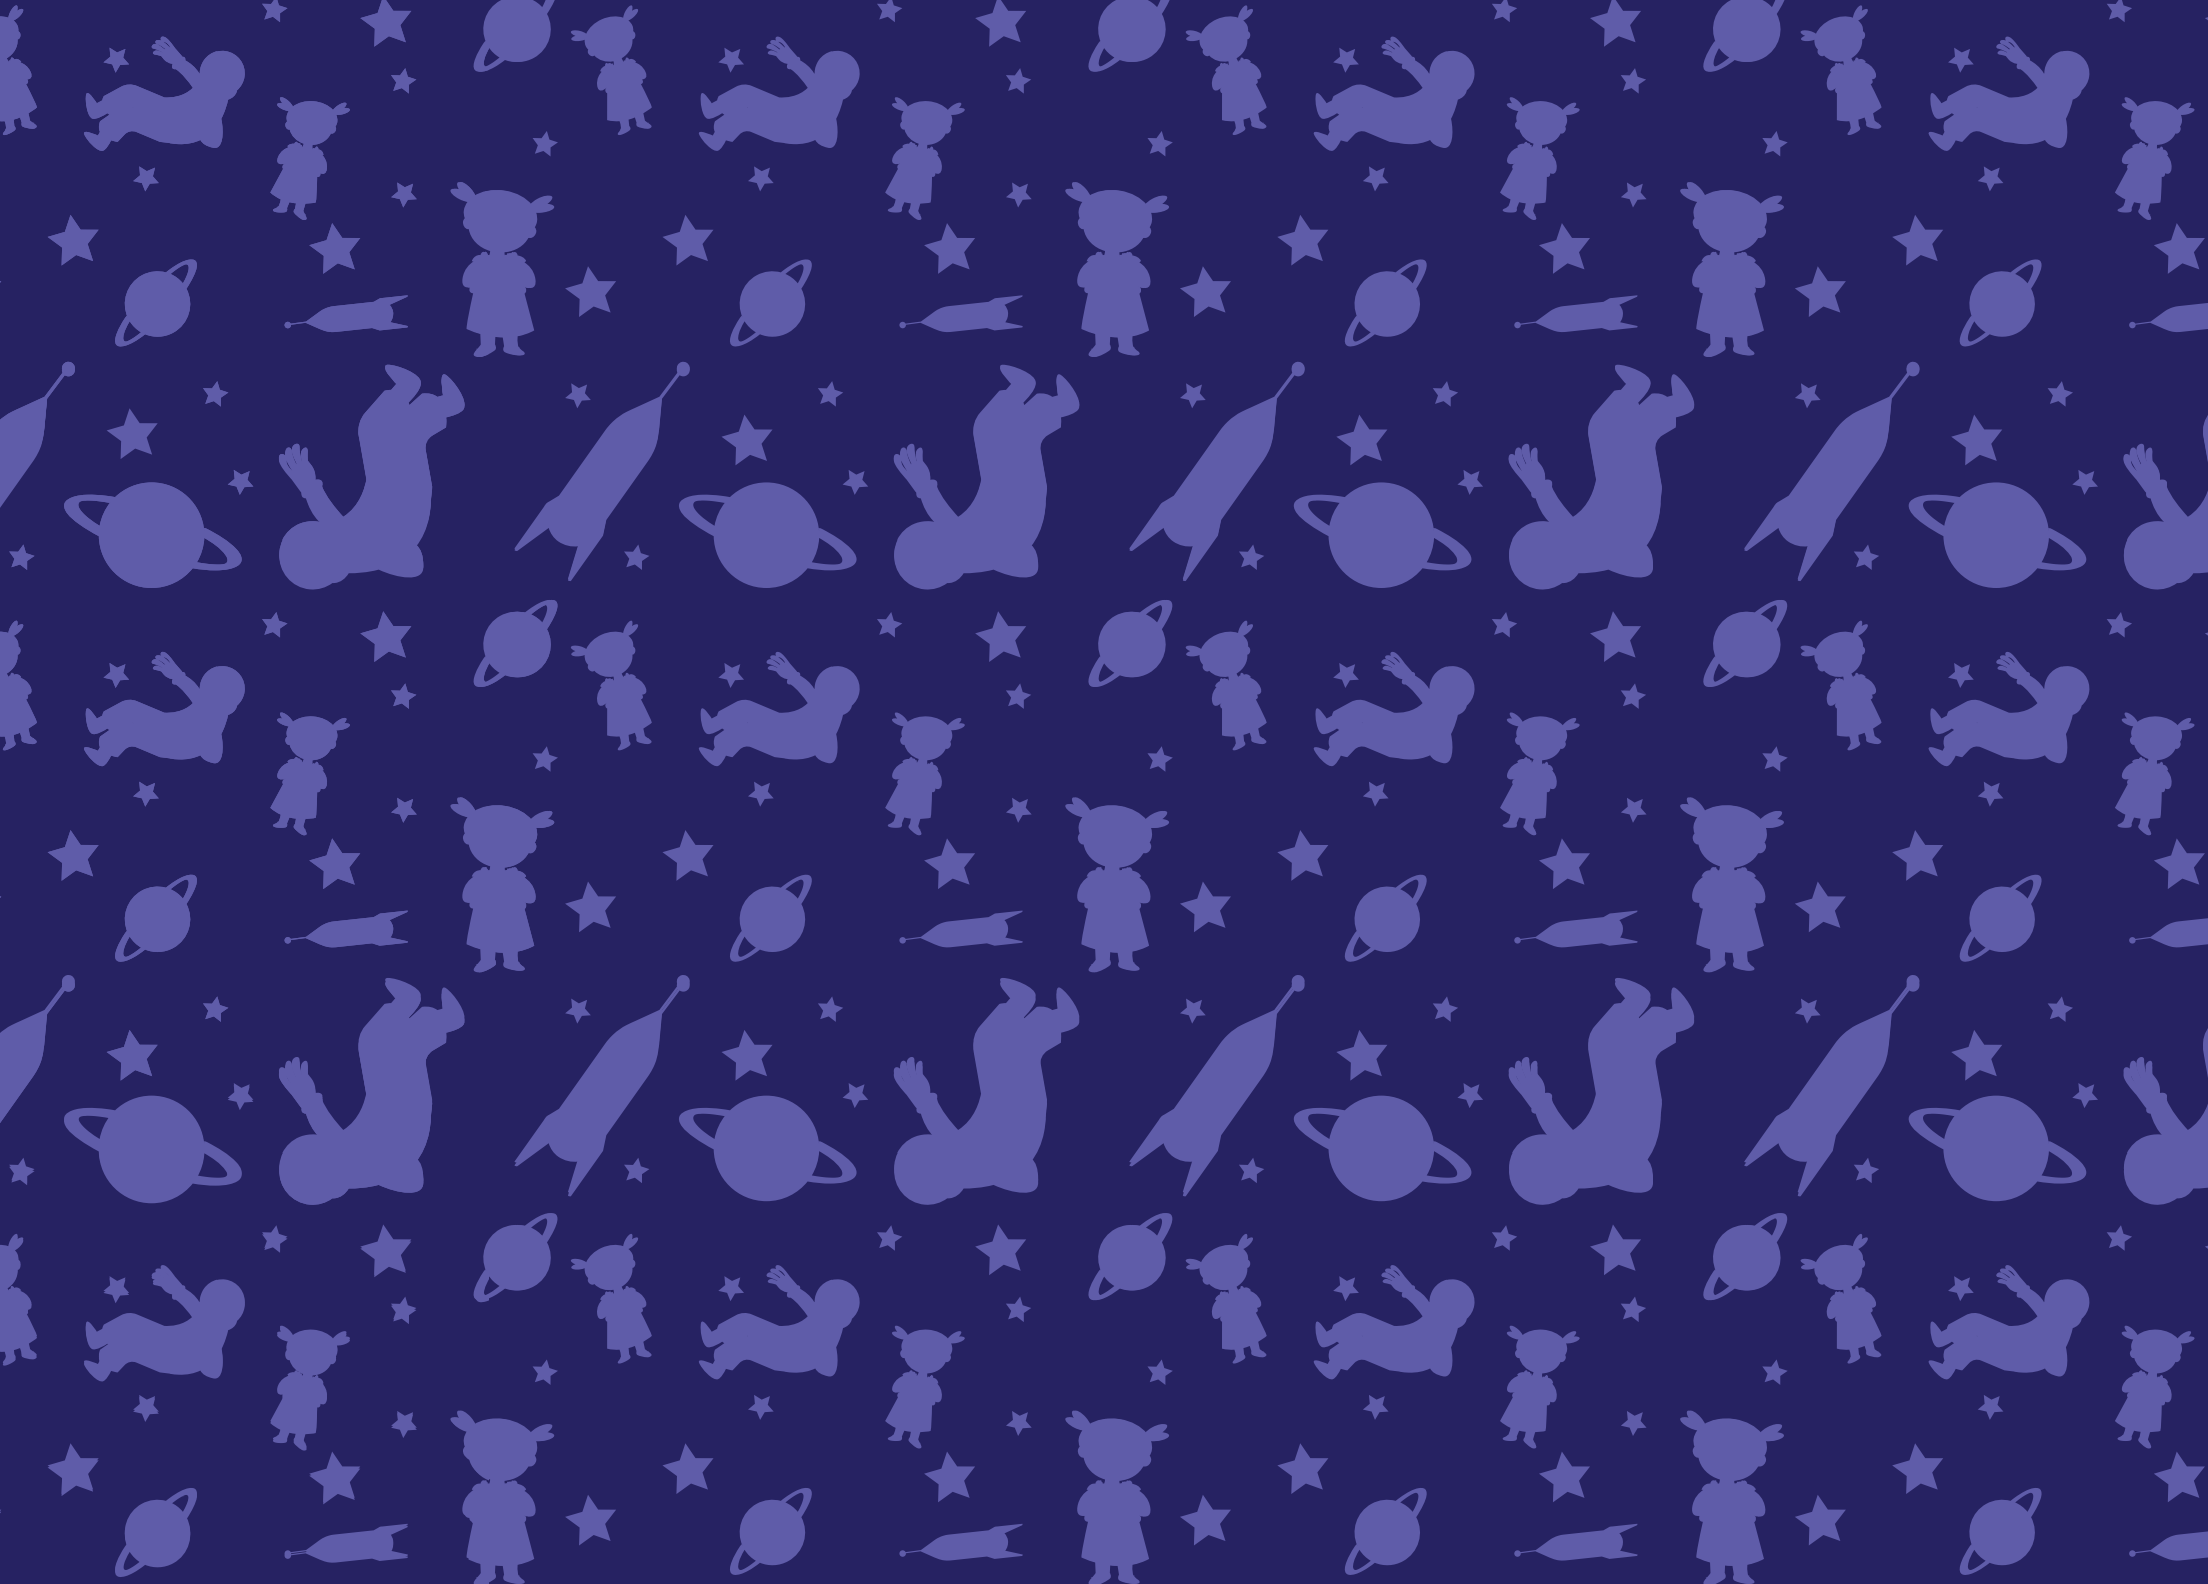

Daisy's little brother, though, was very different than Daisy! He didn't spend his days dreaming of adventures...

...For Evan,
every day
was an adventure.
He had so much energy!
